

Did you ever feel like there was something really wrong in the world of men and women, but could not put your finger on it? Well, to find your answer all you have to do is take the Red Pill. Join your host, men's activist Paul Elam, as we explore the world of modern men and women in ways far too real for the Matrix of the mainstream media.

You will need to buckle up for this one...

Everything you have ever thought about men, women and maybe even yourself is about to change, find out more below.
